ARMY OF THE POTOMAC-ITS SUCCESSFUL ADVANCE-OFFICIAL BULLETIN. Washington, April 1, 1865.-Major Gen Dix: The following telegraphic dispatch, in relation to military operations now going on at the front, was received this morning. Nothing later has reached this Department:

E. M. STANTON. City Point, March 31, 8:30 P. M.—Hon. E. M. Stanton: At 12:30 P. M. to-day Gen. Grant telegraphed me as follows:

"There has been much hard fighting this morning. The enemy drove our left from near Dabney's house back well toward the Boydton plank road. We are now about to take the offensive at that point, and I hope will more than recover the lost ground." Later.—He telegraphed again as follows:
"Our troops, after being driven back to Boydton plank road, rallied and drove the enemy in turn, and took Whiteoak road, which we now have. This gives us the ground occupied by the enemy this morning. I will send you the rebel flag captured by our troops in driving the enemy back. There have been four flags captured to-day," Judging by the two points from which Grant telegraphs, I infer that he moved his headquarters about one mile since he sent the first of the two dispatches.

THURSDAY'S OPERATIONS.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, March 30, 8 P. M.—Notwithstanding a heavy rain storm, which set in last night and continued until this morning, the army has to-day advanced about two miles, and the 5th corps has reached the Boydton Plankroad near its junction with the White-oak. This is the place where the 2d corps had an engagement with the enemy last autumn, in which it suffered severely. The ground gained to-day cost us but few men, the rebels making but very seight resistance. At Hatcher's run, which is only a short distance further on, the enemy have strong earthworks erected, defended with heavy guns, and here they will, no doubt, make a stand to oppose our further advance from this point. The new line extends to the Armstrong mill. The 2d corps held the right of the position in the engagement of yesterday. The number of prisoners taken was 125, with eight commissioned officers. They belonged to Bushrod Johnson's cavalry, and were part of the force that made men, the rebels making but very slight realry, and were part of the force that made the attack upon our lines last Saturday. The rebels made a demonstration at several points on the old line last night for the pur-pose, evidently, of ascertaining whether the works were held in force. They did anot gain anything however, excepting the information that the line was strong enough to defend itself. This explains the firing heard at City Point on Wednesday night and early Thursday morning, Noth-ing has yet been received here as to the operations of the cavalry, but it is not doubted they will give a good account of themselves. A battle was expected for the possession of the Southside railroad, and juding from the confidence and high spirits of the officers and men, there will be a good result.

FIGHTING ON WEDNESDAY. NEW YORK, April 1.—The Tribune's 5th corps special of the 29th, 6 P. M., says: At 4 A. M. this day the 5th and 2d corps were put in march upon the right of the enemy's line, the 5th corps moving by the Quaker road. On coming to a point called Skunk's Hollow, and mounting the brow of the opposite slove a breast-work was of the opposite slope, a breast-work was found abandoned by the enemy.

Passing about three-quarters of a mile beyond this point, the head of the column met the front of the enem'y lines, posted on the edge of a thick pine wood. Upon clearing here a sudden and heavy fire was opened upon our skirmish line, and it was driven back upon the line formed by the second brigade, rallied and drove back the enemy with some loss in prisoners. In the meantime, General Warren drew up the rest of the 2d and 3d divisions of the 5th corps in line, in order to support the attack.

After an action of about three-quarters of an hour the enemy retreated in haste, leav-ing most of their dead and wounded on the field. The 5th corps now occupies the ground. The force of the enemy engaged was one division of the 4th corps, under General Bushrod Johnson, its strength be-

Our loss may reach 300 to 400 men killed and wounded. That of the enemy in killed and wounded appears to be about the same, but the number of prisoners is from 150 to 200, which renders their total loss greater

The Tribune's correspondent dated Gravelly Bun, on the night of the 29th, says: By the movement of to-day our original line, which extended on the left to Hatcher Run, has been prolonged beyond the run westward across the Vaughan turnpike to Quaker's woods and facing northward to ut two and a half miles west of Dinwiddie Courthouse,

OUR GENERALS.

New York, April I.—The Lieutenant General, accompanied by Generals Williams and Ingalls and several members of their staffs, came up to Humphrey's Station, near Hatcher's Run, at 11 o'clock this morning, and soon after crossed the Run, visiting different points along the line, and establishing their headquarters for the night on the Vaughan road, near Gravelly Run. Gen. Meade accompanied our advance, Gen. Meade accompanied our advance, early in the morning, and likewise, had his headquarters on the Vaughan road, two miles from Hatcher's Run.

WASHINGTON, April I.—There are at present at the depot of prisoners at Point Lookout about 10,000 rebel prisoners, including 3,000 received last week. Two thousand are being sent for exchange.

NEW YORK, April 1.—The Commercial's Washington special says the rain storm has delayed the advance of the army. Dinwiddie Courthouse was occupied on Thursday, and our line extended to the Boydton plankroad. Our right rests on Hatcher's run, the point formerly occupied by our extended left thus gaining an important positreme left, thus gaining an important posi-tion. The rebels had retreated to their main line of works before the Southside Railroad, and were awaiting an attack. Sheridan has swept clear round the rebel army. THE MOVEMENT ON MOBILE-MATTERS AT MEMPHIS-MEXICAN ITEMS.

CAIRO, March 31.—To encourage the res-oration of civil government, and induce the people to return to their allegiance and ormer avocations, Gen. Washburne, com-nanding at Memphis, orders that no raids be sent into the country except to resist the rebel forces. Unauthorized foraging is for-bidden and the people urged to organize civil government and estaplish cours of justice, and the organization of a civil posse in each county is also recommended; and when satisfactory assurance is given for their proper use, arms and ammunition will be furnished to them. Refugees formerly residing in the District are invited to return to their homes, punishment for un-kind treatment from malicious neighbors being guaranteed. NEW YORK, April 1.-A Mobile special of the 20th says troops commenced moving on transports from Dauphin Island, on Friday, to the main land on Mobile point, the 13th army corps first to move, the 16th following, and Generals Canby and Granger, with their staffs, nearly last. Lieut. Colonel Wilson left Dauphin Island on Friday proving for Berranes Fla, with orders day morning for Barrancas, Fla., with orders for Gen. Steele and column to move immediately. The navy are all ready, and will open fire as soon as the order is given.

A letter from New Orleans says that nearly all the civil officers of that city have been removed by order of General Canby, and that the Provost Marshal has been convicted and sentenced to imprisonment for life for smuggling arms to the rebels. These are undoubtedly the first fruits of Baldy

Smith's commissioners.

It is confidently believed that by this time

New York, April 2.—The Mobile Bay correspondent says the advance upon that city commenced on the 17th, and very little opposition was met with. The 13th and 16th corps compose the army of the advance, and Generals Canby, Granger and A. J. Smith are all in the lead. The navy was fully prepared to co-operate. No serious opposition was anticipated until reachous opposition was anticipated until reaching the works about the city, which are said to be garrisoned by fifteen thousand rebels, who will make a stubborn resistance. A New Orleans dispatch says heavy cannonading was heard on the 21st near Mobile. Mobile.

The Herald's New Orleans correspondent says that Major General Lew Wallace has gone to the Rio Grande on a mission, supposed to be concerning the expulsion of our Consul at Matamoras by Maximilian, and the return of rebel deserters by Mejia.

The conference with the General is said to have been entirely satisfactory. The re-exhibiting their usual tenacity of purpose, the rebels last night made another desperate attempt to storm Fort Stedman and break through the lines of the 9th corps, and if possible reach City Point. They moved heavy columns to the front of Fort Stedman, and about 10 o'clock at night, with one of their yells they boldly advanced to the assault. A brisk fight at once commenced and continued throughout the entire night. It didn't cease till far into the morning.

The result culminated in the repulse of the rebel columns with heavy loss, while ours was only four killed and twenty-four wounded. The rebels were caught in a trap, and but for the darkness would have been slaughtered unmercifully. As it was they were greatly exposed.

MONTIFICAL, April 1.—Southern refugees and their sympathizers are having a lively time to-day. Their leading organ has issued the following extra, and they are circulating it throughout the city.

culating it throughout the city.

Infamous conspiracy of the Provincial Executive for the extradition of the St, Albans raiders. By one of those extraordinary interventions by which persons defeat or reveal crimes, we have been placed in possession of incontrovertible evidence of the intention of the Provincial Executive Committee to commit an infamy unknown to modern times and of the means by which it is hoped to accomplish it. Almost incredible as the statement we are about to make is, we not only pledge ourselves to the truth of it, but we challenge the Executive Committee to deny it. It will be remem-Committee to deny it. It will be remembered that the charge against the St. Albans raiders disposed of by Judge Smith was only one of several, but the judgment of the court declaring the accused to be lawful belligerents engaged in an act of war not recognized by the tribunal of a neutral State, virtually disposes of all the charges which arose out of the St. Albans raid and wars instances of it were instances of it.

The accused were remanded until to-day for the purpose of the prosecution proceeding with the other charges, among which is one of murder. They were also arrested on a warrant charging them with a breach of neutrality, and on this they were remanded for examination until Monday next. The government are probably aware that there is little prospect of obtaining a conviction on this accusation. Judge Smith remarked that in his opinion there is no evidence of a breach of neutrality having been committed. Having failed to obtain the extradition of the accused by legal means before an impartial tribunal, they have de-termined to attempt it by a conspiracy which the designation infamous is too mild to qualify.

Last evening Mr. Carter dispatched Mr. Schiller from this city to Toronto with in-structions to obtain the assistance of Mr. Harrison, the barrister, and proceed with him to St. Catherines and there obtain a warrant by any means and at all hazards, from some loyal magistrate, for the arrest of the St. Albans raiders, now confined the St. Albans raiders, now confined there on a breach of neutrality, and return this warrant to Montreal as rapidly as possible. To obtain this warrant he will make sible. To obtain this warrant he will make any little affidavit necessary. The warrant is to include the name of Mr. C. C. Clay, although it is no orious that he left the Province some weeks ago. When the case of the St. Albans raiders comes up this morning it has been arranged that the prosecution will decline to proceed in the other ecution will decline to proceed in the other charges, so that the prisoners may be re-manded without bail or benefit of habeas corpus until Wednesdaynext. By that time it is expected the St. Catharines warrant will have arrived.

The charge for breach of neutrality will be withdrawn and the accused, arrested unthe substituted authority, will be secret ly removed to St. Catharines. The charge of breach of neutrality there will fail because of no evidence, and there will be no effort to procure any. Neither do the in-structions to Mr. Schiller or Harrison as much as hint at evidence, but the moment the accused are discharged they will be ar-rested on a demand for extradition on the charges now pending against them, and they will be carried for examination and committed before the Toronto judges who extradited Burleigh, and who are considered so far committed, by their ruling in that case and by their expressed opinion in this, that they will obey with alacrity the order of the Government. The St. Catharines warrant is, in fact, the cunning contrivance by which the adjudication of the remainder. and from judges who refused to be toads of a foreign enemy at the dictation of the Executive, who is willing to pollute the judi-cial ermine by such subserviences, and to prostitute their office by viler conduct than has been witnessed on the British bench since the days of Jeffreys.

Whether the timely discovery and exposure of this most infamous and damnable plot will prevail it is not known. But such is the conspiracy the Executive of Canada is now engaged in, and such the means they are taking to effect the cowardly and cruel end they have in view. The murder of these unfortunate young men, declared free of all guilt by the tribunals here before which they have had so long. here, before which they have had so long, so patient, and so thorough an examina-tion, such an outrage on justice, such a piece of superlative and reckless wickedness, such a trampling in the mire of the honor and good name of the country can be honor and good name of the country can be attributed to nothing short of madness, which requires and should receive restraint. It is the duty of the people of this city to prevent its perpetration, if possible, at any cost, or, if that fails, it will be their duty to punish it. If they fail in these regards the blood which their rulers are plotting to shed will be on their heads, and on those of their children forever, a triple curse of of their children forever, a triple curse of

Gen. Slaughter requested an interview with Gen. Wallace, which took place at Point Isabel, Texas.

The result was that the vessel bearing General Wallace was sent with dispatches to General Canby, with orders to land that General at Galveston on her return, showing that General Wallace was to be there.

A QUESTION.

I close my eyes, and once again, The old, eld house and cedar tree, With its solemn shade on the moon-lit lawn, Clear as a vision comes back to me.

The red geraniums mourn for the sun, Yet black they look in the moon's full light; The loose white roses over the porch, Smell faintly sweet in the summer night. I go through the porch and through the hall, And then I pause by the parlor door; Half open it stands and the moonlight streams Through open windows on the floor.

My love sits at the organ and plays, A wild old melody, strange and low, Dreamily singing a ballad quaint, One that I sung to her long ago.

Softly I steal to her side—she turns, Breaking off in the midst of a line, "Love I was thinking of you," she says; And then puts both her hands in mine She never sings in the parlor now— In perfect day by the glassy sea. She sings a song that the angels know, But oh! does she ever think of me?

Burning of Columbia.

[We are permitted to publish the follow ng extract from a private letter by a member of Gen. Sherman's staff to a gentleman in this city. It is interesting, as showing that the city was set on fire by the carelessness of the rebels in destroying their cotton. The conduct of the people in supplying our soldiers with liquor deserved no better re-

From here Gen. Sherman pushed for Co-dumbia. The night we got opposite the city, and the troops were all in camp, they com-menced shelling us, in return for which a few shells were the next day dropped in the city. Three of them struck the new State se. Between us and the river they had a very strong line of works, but they gave them up without a fight. That day we got a pontoon across the Saluda about two miles above its confluence with Broad river. Skirmishers were pushed forward and an skirmishers were pushed forward and an effort made to save the bridge over the Broad. They failed, however, but during the night a crossing was effected. We went down about 10 o'clock where they were putting down the bridge. Gen. Sherman was in a very good humor and talking quite freely to Generals Howard, Logan, Woods, &c. "Jeff Davis is as mad as h—1 to-day. He was med vesterday, but he will be med. He was mad yesterday, but he will be more so to-day." Broad river is some 700 or 750 feet wide, and he anticipated that they would attempt to oppose his crossing, but now that we had learned that our skirmishers were in Columbia and without any fighting, he seemed to feel that he had done a good thing. I think he appreciates as well as any one the value of the results he obtains, but there is, I think, with him such a consciousness of his power that he takes it all as a matter of course. By ter ng toward the city. As we rode along the streets the darkies shouted, clapped their hands and danced. I saw some of the white citizens that acted in much the same manner. We took for the headquarters of the officers of our mess the house of a Judge Carroll. They had abandoned everything. It just seemed as if the family had just walked out of the house, taking nothing with them. Gen. Sherman and the other officers went into the house of Colonel Blanton Duncan. He made a fortune out of the Confederacy and has gone to Europe. He professedly gave the house to some one. Affairs in that house were in much the same condition. In the afternoon I went down to the arseal where larger prepares of small grant and the conditions of the conditi nal where larger numbers of small arms were stored and a good deal of ammunition. I was fortunate enough to get hold of a Wesley Richard's double-barrelled gun, but from another party. About 8 o'clock as I went out into the street, I saw the sky lighted up. Going down toward the market house I found that a fire had broken out in a row of large buildings, and soon made up my mind that the city would suffer severely. As we came in, the darkies who had gotten hold of large quantities of liquor, gave it out by the bucket full to our oren. The citizens who had guards sent to them had thought to propitiate by a similar liberality. The consequence was that of the guards stationed to protect the city and prevent anything of the kind happe two-thirds of them were drunk. The two-thirds of them were drunk. Then before the rebels went out they had brought all the cotton they could get hold of into the streets and were going to burn it. The day they left the wind was so high that they did not dare set it on fire for fear of burning the city. As we came in the cotton from those bales which had been cut was flying through the air and lodging in the trees. The latter had the appearance of trees after a heavy snow storm when the trees after a heavy snow storm when the snow is damp. When the fire broke out the wind was driving through the streets at a great rate, and this cotton would catch the from the sparks and go flying through the air till it lodged on some house. Many of our men no doubt, set fire to a good many houses to enable them to pillage after the families had left. You might go into a house and you would find the floors strewn with dresses, clothing of all kinds, books, with dresses, clothing of all kinds, books, paintings, broken furniture, glass ware, and in fact everything you could find in the houses. A dozen soldiers would be tossing it all over and taking what pleased their fancy, and then when they went to another drop what they might have and load up again. As they moved on they would get more and different kinds of liquor. In the meantime Gen. Logan and Gen. Howard were using their efforts to put a stop to it, though I really think they didn't set about it in the right way. At length they did what should have been done in the first place. A division of troops were brought in and marched through the different streets, picking up every one. Just before this I had been up to one of the Hospitals. Some one had told me that the Hospital with 200 sick and wounded of our men was about to burn. Maj. Waterhouse men was about to burn. Maj. Waterho and I made our way over there as rapidly as we could, and then learned that the Hospital was in no danger. A Colonel who was clearing the streets was going to arrest Maj. W. and party, and treat them in the same style as the rest. Some two or three of us worked hard to save a house near headquarters, and I think we stopped the fire from going any farther in that direction. For some two hours I was the most of the time astride of the ridge of a most of the time astride of the ridge of a house and throwing water. The house we were first in (Judge Carroll's) was burned, and we just escaped, having our baggage burned with it. Such a night I never want to see again. Nearly if not quite 50 blocks were burned. It was certainly more than two-thirds of the whole place. Gen. Sherman was up nearly all night and going through the streets giving directions. The whole affair was, I think, regretted throughout the entire army, though the people of Columbia have themselves to blame for it. Taking into account the heavy wind it. Taking into account the heavy wind it seemed as if it were a judgment upon

News of the Day.

Gen. Grant crossed Hatcher's run Wednesday noon. Our Saturday's dispatches, on the first page, give some inkling of the severity of the fighting for the next sevenseverity of the fighting for the fiext seven-ty-two hours. The general result annouced in yesterday's official bulletins is that Lee has been driven back upon the White Oak road nearly to Stony creek. The five forks, where he made his most obstinate stand, is a point about eighteen miles southwest of Petersburg, and about ten miles beyond Hatcher's run. Here Sheridan made one of the brilliant charges for which he is fa-mous, and drove the rebels from the field. mous, and drove the rebels from the field.

mous, and drove the rebels from the field.
Grant's furious assault upon Lee's right flank must speedily eventuate in giving us possession of Richmond and Petersburg, or in permanently isolating Lee from the rest of the confederacy. It is not to be understood that Grant has abandoned his thirty miles of fortifications, or cut loose from his base. The attack last Wednesday (after the army had crossed Hatcher's Run) from his base. The attack last Wednesday (after the army had crossed Hatcher's Run) upon Fort Stedman, proved that the works are efficiently manned; and Grant's immense army will enable him to extend his lines of contravallation thirty miles further if necessary. If Lee does not wish to be out flanked, he must let go of Richmond.

Nor has all the fighting been between Hatcher's run and Stony creek. If the reader will draw upon his map a semicircle der will draw upon his map a semicircle whose diameter shall be the line between Dinwiddie court house and Sutherland's station, ten miles west of Petersburg, the circumference will nearly pass throboth the battlefield of the five forks, miles northwest of Dinwiddie, and the point where the rebel lines were broken through by the sixth and ninth three miles southwest of Suther-s. A line drawn through both battle fields, and prolonged to the northeast, will pass through Sutherland's and Walthal Junction on the Richmond road. A little examination of this position will show that Lee's lines are exterior. In order to prevent Grant from getting between him and Danville, and at the same time to hold Pet rsburg, he must keep the arc of the semi-circle while Grant has the chord. And he has not enough men for the purpose. If the statement is true that Wright was yes-terday morning tearing up the Southside railroad, we may expect to hear any hour that Petersburg is in our possessi-

The St. Albans raiders are in a bad way. Their loud mouthed friends have just discovered the largest kind of a mare's nest, an "infamous and damnable plot," where-by these innocent victims, "these unfortu-nate young men," will be brought to a "cowardly and cruel end.". Their mani-festo is decidedly a literary curiosity.

Meantime the St. Albans banks are reimbursed by the provincial parliament—a very judicious procedure; it will prove the cheapest bill of costs ever they paid.

Gen, Washburne is making a serious attempt to inaugurate civil government in the counties of western Tennessee. It is to be feared that he is premature. It only needs the presence of a rebel army in that section to develop as much latent treason as exists any where south of Louisville. There is an old fable, something about warming a snake in one's bosom, which we have seen exemplified too many times already in this war. ready in this war.

The rebel State Government has evacuated Raleigh and gone to Greensboro. They were a little too close to Sherman. They say he wears seven-league boots, and they were less than forty miles from his army. So, like Scott's coon, they promptly discount the wrath to come. They are eighty miles further west now; and it will take "Old Billy" six days instead of two.

Gen. Lew. Wallace is having a consultation with the rebel authorities in Texas. All information tends latterly to show that ing satisfactorily. We shall soon hear of its capture or evacuation. The gunboats are anxiously waiting permission to open the attack. If there were any manner of But if they attempt it, they must inevitably capitulate in the end; and they will not be likely to accept that fate when it is so easy to runaway.

The Confiscation Act.

The Democrat in its diligent pursuit of ecession readers is active in the presentation of bugbear obstacles to the restoration of peace, and the settlement of effective terms of amity between the two great sections of the Republic. It has one article on the subject, which it reproduces with slight variations, from two to six times a week, and in which the essential animus of the paper, its narrowness, malignity, anti-patriotism and reckless denial or perversion of facts are specially apparent. The gist of this article is that the confiscation act passed by the Congress of the United States in the summer of 1862 is an insuperable barrier to the voluntary return of the South thing, and that nobody else but Sherman is to the Union. The editor says this law doing anything, and adds: "takes the life, liberty and property of every rebel." And that this is one of the laws to which they must submit when they are asked to surrender and yield obedience to the Constitution and laws.

We are not aware that he has ever intimated that there were any checks or qualifications in this law rendering it not only an exceedingly mild affair, but practically a nullity. We have often called attention to these mitigating features of the law. Let us look at them once more. But first a word as to the control given by the law the circulation of the Democrat. And yet over the lives of rebels. The act simply reiterates the old penalty for treason, namely, blusters if anybody hints that he isn't the death. For more than half a century this very pink and model of loyalty! has been the law of the land. The new law reaffirms this penalty, but adds most im- of his accustomed military criticisms. But a qualifying resolution was passed by Congress at about the same date with the approval of the act itself, limiting the effect of confiscation upon real estate to the life-time of the owner. The law appears to be tolerably sweeping with even this modification. Considering how general the participation in treason has been in the South, in one form or another, this act, if stringently executed, would not leave a great amount of property in the hands of current owners. But meanwhile, section 13 of the act, practically takes off its edge completely. This section is as follows:

Specimen Bricks.

The organ that panders to the beggarly and despondent element of treason in our midst takes frequent occasion to exalt the heroisn and prowess of the rebel army by reckless misstatements respecting the relative strength of the two armies; and, also. to underrate the genius and services of Lieut. Gen. Grant. In its issue of Saturday we observe this:

Grant's army is at a dead lock at Richmond, where Lee, with sixty thousand men, is keeping Grant, with three hundred thousand, fully employed.

So it happens that we are supporting an army of more than half a million, while we are using about one-tenth of that force. This is a view of the matter that isn't generally taken. We hear very often that Grant holds Lee as within a vice, that he paralyzes the only large and efficient army of the rebellion. It can be said, on the other hand, that Lee holds Grant and his much larger army as in a vice; that he keeps employed a force eight or wine times his own ed a force eight or nine times his no more.

It must be admitted to the honor of the particular one referred to, that the moment he heard the summons on the engine-house bell, he heeded it, and went with commendable haste, not in the direction he was wanted, for he did'nt know which that was, but to the engine-house, three squares away. Here he ascertained what had happened, and went back the three squares to the scene of disaster. By this time, as might be supposed, the chances of finding the rascals were not impressively numerous. SEC. 21. And be it further enacted, That, in addition to other lawful penalties of the crime of desertion from the military or naval service all persons who have deserted the military or naval service of the United States, who shall not return to said service, or report themselves to a section is as follows:

And I e it further enacted, That the President is hereby authorized, at any time hereafter, by proclamation, to extend to persons who may have participated in the existing rebellion, in any State or part thereof, pardon and annesty with such exceptions, and at such time, and on such conditions, as he may deem expedient for the public welfare.

In accordance with this, President Lincoln on the 8th of December, 1863, issued his famous proclamation of amnesty, which thousands of rebel soldiers have already tathon and the processing and the participated in the carrior birds to fields of carnage, it is because the boys in blue are strolling about somewhat. If there is any force here that rogues need fear it is military. Municipal authority has reached the scare-crow grade of development. The only absurd feature connected with the after-piece in the Bland-rob-bary-case, was of that young man running himself out of breath to ring the summons the engine house bell! He could have loss by desertion.

An opportunity is thus offered to all deserters, and those absent without proper authorit; to return to their posts of duty, and thus wipe from the records the charge of their crimes. An earnest appeal is, therefore, made to all who have deserted from any of the organizations of troops from this Stat, to return immediately to the same, or report themselves to the ne-rest Provost Marshal, who will see them properly forwarde; and thereby relieve themselves from the penalty of uttr and complete disfranchis-ment, and their relations and friends from the mortification and grief c-nsequent thereupon.

By order of the Governor.

ALDERMAN IN THE 7TH WARD .-- Mr. J. M. Armstrong, candidate for Alderman in the Seventh Ward, owes his defeat to the efforts of policemen against him. Mr. Armstrong introduced into the Common Council an ordinance providing for the uniforming of the police force of the city, believing that to be a much needed measure of municipal reform. The ordinance passed the Common Council, but was defeated in the Board of Aldermen, the opposition of the police contributing materially, as is believed, to its defeat. Mr. Armstrong announced himself a candidate in the Seventh Ward for Alderman at the election last Saturday, promising, if elected, to advocate the adoption of this police ordinance as a member of the Upper Board. There, was, therefore, a concentration of effort by the policemen in the Seventh Ward to defeat him, and they succeeded. Every vote they could control was cast against him.

Had not Mr. Armstrong made himself obnoxious to the "guardians of the public peace" by identifying himself so closely with this measure of reform, he would doubtless have been elected. That he was defeated is certainly no credit to the citizens of the Ward.

SHOT AND KILLED .- About six o'clock Saturday evening two men named Mike Watson, and Ed. THE EQUESCRRICULUM .- To-night the institution with difficult performance, yet truly classic appellation-the Equescurriculum-will commence its elegant and diversified entertainments. The lot chosen for the erection of the pavilion is at the corner of corner of Chestnut and East, a very eligible and convenient location, and quite easy of access.

The company is a triple one, composed of the leading members of three distinct equestrian establishments, one of English extraction, one of Parisian reputation, and another to the "manor born." This concentration of ability is without antecedents, no such powerful combination having ever before been attempted either here or abroad. Mr. L. B. Lent, who is justly regarded as the leading showman of the age, conceived the plan, and by means of his experience, tact, perseverance and liberal expenditure of capital, has put the gigantic enterprise in

Not content with the reputation he ha acquired for the Equescurriculum, he has augmented its strength by securing for the season of 1865, Mr. James Robinson, the champion horseman of world, who will ap pear in a sensational act in which he wil for the first time in Louisville, introduc his infant son, Clarence. He will execute his emotional specialty entitled "Robinson's ride." Madame Louise Touniaire, the only bare back equestrienne in the world, will appear at each and every peformance. The Equescurricum will, we are satisfied, will draw out the ton, and send more satisfaction to the community than any peripa-tetic exhibition has ever done in Louisville,

Frank Drew opens his engagement at the Louisville Theater to-night with Bourcicault's beautiful drama "Violet." Frank sustains the difficult and pathetic role of "Grimaldi," in which his success was so marked at Philadelphia. The critics pronounced it his best part, awarding him "great praise for the high degree of excel-

"Violet" is not in any sense a burlesque, but a serious comedy. Its humor is altogether incidental, and requires to be reers must not fail to "assist" at the representation.

GRANT! SHERIDAN! WARREN! The Battle at the Five Forks!

Desperate Fighting! Thousands of Prisoners Taken!

Official Bulletins. WAR DEPARTMENT, WASHINGTON, April , 11 P. M .- Major General Dix: The following dispatch from the President received to-night shows that the desperate struggle between our forces and the enemy continues undecided, although the advantage appears to be on our side.

President Lincoln's Dispatch. CITY POINT, April 1 .- To Hon. E. M. Stanton, Secretary of War: I have just received a dispatch showing that Sheridan, aided by Warren, had, at 2 P. M., pushed the enemy back so as to retake the Fve Forks and bring his ewn headquarters up o Bossows. The Five Forks was barracaded by Deven's division of cavalry. This part of the enemy seems to be now trying to work along the Whiteoak road to joint the force in front of Grant, while Sheridan and Warren are pressing them as closely as possible.

A. LINCOLN. [Signed] Adjt. Gen. Bower's Dispatch.

WAR DEPARTMENT, WASHINGTON, 2 P. M., April 2d-To Major General Dix-A dispatch just received from Grant's Ad jt. Gen. at City Point, announces the triumphant success of our armies after three days hard fighting, during which the forces on both sides exhibited valor:

City Point, March 2-5:40 A. M .-- A dispatch from Gen. Grant states that Sheridan, commanding cavalry and infantry, has carried everything before him. He captured 3 brigades of infantry, a wagon train, and several batteries of artillery. The prisoners captured will amount to several thousands. (Signed) my's Lines Broken. WASHINGTON, April 2, 11 A. M.-To Gen. Dix:-The following from the President gives the latest received from the front, where a furious battle was raging with continued glorious successes. CITY POINT, April 2, 8:30 A. M .-- Hon, E. M, Stanton: Last night Gen. Grant telegraphed that Sheridan, with his cavalry 4th corps, had captured three brigades of infantry, a train of wagons and several batteries. The prisoners, amounting to several thousand. This morning Grant naving ordered an attack along the whole line, telegraphs as follows:

"Both Wright and Parks got through the nemy's lines; the battle rages furiously. Sheridan, with his cavalry and the 5th corps, which was sent to him this morning. is now sweeping down from the west, all now looks highly favorable. Gen. Ord is engaged, but I have not yet heard the re-A. LINCOLN." sult in front.

President Lincoln's Third Dispatch--Gen-eral Smash-up of the Rebel Lines in Front of Petersburg--The South Side Railroad Torn up-The Rebels Outflanked-How are you Johnnies! WASHINGTON, April 2-2 P. M .- The President in the subjoined telegram gives the latest news from the front:

City Point, March 2-12 M .-- To Hon, E. M. Stanton-Dispatches are coming in that all is going on finely. Gens. Parke, Wright and Ord's lines are extending from the Appomattox to Hatcher's Run. They have all broken through the enemy's entrenchments and lines, taking some forts, guns and prisoners. Sheridan with his own cevalry and the 5th and part of the 3d corps is coming in from the west on the enemy's flank, WRIGHT IS ALREADY TEAR-ING UP THE SOUTH SIDE ROAD.

(Signed) A. LINCOLN. Friday's Fighting--Great Slaughter of Washington, April 2.—A letter from the Army of the Potomac, dated Friday evening says:

There has been severe fighting in some parts of the line from morning till night the result of which has been the extension of our lines still further west, although at a considerable loss in killed and wounded. The 2d division of the 5th corps supported by the 3d, was thrown out toward the White Oak road east of the Boydston plank and ordered to reach and take position there. After crossing a small branch of Gravel Run, and while about forming in line of battle our troops were fired on by the enemy who were lying concealed in the woods and also by the rebel artil-lery posted in favorable positions. Our men stood for a while, but the enemy ap-pearing to be moving to the left as to turn pearing to be moving to the left as to turn their flank, the line was forced back to their first position, where they were rallied and checked the enemy's advance. About the same time another attack was made on our right flank, of the 5th corps, but General Miles' division, of the 2d corps, being posted here made a brilliant charge and doubled up the enemy, driving them back a long distance, leaving hundreds of their dead and wounded on the field.

This was a very handsome offsir and This was a very handsome affair, and the division received the highest praise for the manner in which it was done. The rebel loss in the day's work will not be far from 1,200.

Among the casualties reported are Maj. Mills, A. A. G. on Gen. Humphrey's staff, killed by a shell; Col. S. Sargent, 20th Pa., severely wounded; and General Derrison, commanding a brigade in the 20th division of the 5th corps, slightly wounded.

An attack was made in front of the 6th corps.

corps, but was not successful. After the rebels were driven back in front of the 5th corps, an attack was made with both infan-try and cavalry, about three miles from the Southside ra'lroad, near Southerland's station, but our forces subsequently gained more than they lost.

The roads are in a terrible condition, it being impossible to move the trains over them. The heavy rains have swollen the streams, and the engineers are busy day and night in laying bridges, &c.

The loss of the enemy is not known, but it must have been very heavy. We took about fifteen hundred prisioners during the

New York, April 2.—A Richmond paper has a long article on Grant's combination just opening.
It says, without doubt, this combination It says, without doubt, this combination is very formidale, and installs a tremendous crises, and the solution of the war. It says, Grant will give them their deathwound or they will give him his; it calls on the people to do their duty, and claims that the soldiers will do theirs, and concludes by saying the results are with God.

The contests is attributed to Davis.

Virginia-North Carolina-East Tennes-see-Alabama. WASHINGTON, April 2.—The Richmon Sentinel has the following:

To Gen. J. C. Breckinridge, Secretary of War: Gen. Gordon reports that the enemy at 11 P. M., yesterday, advanced against a portion of his line defended by Brig. Gen. Lewis, but was repulsed by the fire of the artillery and mortars, which continued for several hours with considerable activity. No damage on our lines reported.

Reports from Petersburg say that the city was much excited by accounts of a great battle Wednesday night near Petersburg. The accounts were that the enemy had at-tacked Gordon's lines with forces heavily massed, and that they were repulsed with great slaughter in five assaults.

Our cotemporary of the Petersburg Express was completely taken in and published a glowing and fanciful account about the Yankees charging up to our breastworks and being fairly mowed down by the fire of our troops, the slaugh-

Although it was confessed that the night was so dark that a man could not be seen at a distance of 20 feet, the truth of the matter as we learned on yesterday was that there was indeed a grand exhibition of fireworks, but no battle and scarcely any one hurt.

The troops holding Gordon's line took advantage of the darkness to strengthen their chevaux de frise and abbattis in front of their works. The Yankees opposite hearing the noise and supposing Gordon was coming after them, again opened upon us a heavy fire of artillery, which was replied to. The two picket lines also was replied to. The two picket lines also opened a noisy musket fire, which was kept up for several hours. A very few men were wounded on our side. The enemy probably suffered no more. Passengers by last evening's train from > to be a principle in human nature, a kind of roguish curiosity that impels one to act upon suggestions given in such a manner as to imply that though wrong, it is expected they may be, or will be, followed out. The farmer who had a husking frolic, and told his neighbors' boys present that they must be peaceable and orderly on the way home, and must "not" put neighbor Smith's cart on his corn bara, was not probably sur-prised or ought not to have been, to find that he cart was actually astride the barn when the cart was actually astride the barn when the sun rose next morning. Neither is this principle confined wholly to children. There is a story of a Catholic priest and a hostler, which is not inappropriate. When a hostler had finished making confessions of his sins, the priest inquired of him if he had ever greased the teeth of his customers' horses to prevent them from eating their oats. The hostler not only declared that he never did it, but said he never heard of such oats. The hostier not only declared that he never heard of such a thing. The next time he went to the confessional, the first offense he had to acknowledge was, that he had been greasing the teeth of his customers' horses,—[Illinois Teacher.

From originating the plans and furnishing the means, to ex-ecuting the work, he has brought forth in the new RUTH the greatest boat in every respect that has ever graced our shores. No other steamer, not even the far-famed burt en, or cost. Everything about her is on the grandest and most magnificent scale, while nothing has been omitted that science or money could furnish, in making her the most complete stramer for passengers and business combined that has ever yet been seen on our South-western high-

CAPT. PEGRAM is a gentleman of the most enlightened and liberal views, who does not hesitate a moment at the cost of the venture—his sole aim being to supply the traveling and shipping public with asteamer to ply the waters of the Mississippi that shall not be surpassed, if equalled, in any good or essential quality by any vessel or steamship on the Atlantic seaboard, or in Europe. In constructing and furnishing Europe. In constructing and lurinshing the Ruth with a complete outfit suitable to her vast proportions, upwards of a quarter of a million of dollars have been expended. The Ruth, owing to the peculiar conform ity of our rivers, the changes in the depth of water—there being at times 40 feet in the of water—there being at times 40 feet in the channel, and again during the same month less than 6 feet—had to be built of a style and model far different from sea going vessels. She is, however, most admirably adapted to the navigation of the Mississippi and Ohio, combining great strength with light draught, the hull being the largest and most costly yet built in the West, giving her freight capacity for 2,500 tons, and, when light, trimming on four feet water. The dimensions of the hull are as follows: extreme length, 312 feet; beam, or width of bull. 49 feet, with a floor of 42 feet, and 91% hull, 49 feet, with a floor of 42 feet, and 9½ feet depth of hold. She has a sharp and easy model, fore and aft, which, together with her light draught and immense motive power, will make her speed equal to the fleetest, while in the vastness of her careafter for freight and presented the form pacity for freight and passengers, she far exceeds any boat afloat, or any likely to be built for many years to come.

The new Ruth, in outline and general appearance, does not seem as great as she really is when closely examined, and her vast dimensions unveiled. In her construction an admirable symmetry, and compactness have been secured with uniformity of style and no glaring display of extremeous material, but all solid, useful, and in unison with good taste and beauty unadorned. She has one peculiarity, how-ever, being a regular four-decker—the first, or main deck being for the reception of live stock and bulky freight, such as cotton, hay, or tobacco, and the second deck exclusively for deck passengers, having ac-commodations and room for at least 1,000 very comfortably. Over the second deck is the main cabin, the most complete and magnificent in outline ever seen since the days of the great Eclipse. The style is new and original, representing a lofty drawingroom and dining-room combined, support-ed on either side with columns, with a wide room and dining-room combined, supported on either side with columns, with a wide recess or promenade on each side, opening upon which are the state rooms, or rather two long rows of cosey, white cottages with marble steps and rose-wood doors. Once within you find the state-rooms fitted up with every convenience and luxury, including all the requisites for a chamber or sleeping-room, and the beds the largest and softest that ever invited the weary and tired traveler to rest. The cabin of the Ruth is higher, lighter, and fully eight feet wider than that of any boat afloat, and of course all her rooms are equally capacious. The main cabin is 268 feet in length, 23 feet wide, and 18½ feet in hight, the whole painted a pure zinc white, slightly etched with gold. The style of the cabin being semi-Gothic. The furniture is the finest satin and rose-wood, and the laoies' cabin adorned in the richest style and purcst teste, the after bulk-head being filled with an immense mirror, ever servants' rooms, wash rooms, bath rooms, and laundry room, fitted up in the most comfortable and complete manner in unison with all the other appointments of the boat. The guards are unusually wide, and the after guards closed in with lattice work to prevent either accidents to children, or in-trusion from the other portions of the boat. There are two clerk's offices, arranged along the sides of the cabin next to the state rooms, and not in the extreme front of the rooms, and not in the extreme front of the cabin to obstruct the hall, and prevent a free circulation of air in summer. The bar and barber shop are on the starboard guard, and the pantries, cook house, store rooms, and gentlemen's baths are on the larboard guard. In her cabin and texas, exclusive of the officers' rooms, upwards of two hundred passengers can be accommodated in state rooms with beds, while cots could be put up along the cabin and guards, all under shelter, for three hundred more; which, together with her crew of at least one hundred men, and the deck passenger accommodations, give her full capacity for accommodations, give her full capacity for 1,600 persons—a world in itself. In the construction of the Ruth three full though rather warm last evening, indicating rain.

On the falls last evening there were 8½ feet steamboat water and about 7 feet up the middle chute. If the river continues falling as rapidly as it did yesterday boats will not be able to ascend the falls later than this evening.

At Pittsburg on Saturday evening the river was at a stand with 22 feet water in the channel. That will cause another rise here in a day or two.

By our dispatches it appears that the spring freshets in the Western rivers have commenced in earnest and rather earlier than usual. The Mississippi at St. Louis on Saturday was rising fast, and all the tributaries of the Missouri were at flood height, and much damage had been done by floods and storms. A flood is anticipated, and disastrous consequences must ensue along the lower country. each 46 inches in diameter, and 30 feet in

The Cumberland river on Saturday was falling, with only five feet water in the channel, with the arrival at Nashville of the Pioneer, Arizona, and Huntsville, and the departure of the Columbia and Leni Leoti. The Press says:

"Sunk.—The steamer Mattic Cabler, in command of Capt. Dick Harman, was sunk on Thursday evening last, while on her way from this place to Palmyra. This occurred two miles below Bell's Mills, some twenty delay or trouble. Thousands of barrels of pork can be thus stowed away in the hold as easily as rolling it along a level floor. The chimneys above the deck stand 26 feet apart, and each chimney is 70 inches in diameter, extending 75 feet above the upper deck, with the name—Ruth—in gold letters between the chimneys. These letters are each about six feet in length and the same in breadth.
